NAMI Southwestern Pennsylvania
Child and Adolescent Mental Health Conference

Creating a Culture of Transformation
for Children, Youth and Families

Friday, March 31, 2017
Pittsburgh Airport Marriott
Children are our future. Identifying and treating mental health issues early, before they become pervasive, can change the course of a young person’s life. Many solutions to current challenges are already being delivered, while other mental health professionals are pioneering services and supports to meet evolving needs. NAMI Southwestern Pennsylvania’s first ever Child & Adolescent Mental Health Conference, will offer professionals and families learning opportunities to advance and improve current supports for children (0-18) who have or are at risk for developing a mental health disorder and gain knowledge of best practices and innovative treatments for children and adolescents with mental health needs.

Addressing the widespread impact that childhood trauma can have on both the physical and mental health of an individual, Keynote Speaker Dr. Judith Cohen, Medical Director of the Center for Traumatic Stress in Children and Adolescents at Allegheny General Hospital, will present the benefits of trauma-focused cognitive behavioral therapy (TF-CBT). The Center is nationally recognized as a leader in developing and researching evidence-based, trauma-focused treatments for children and adolescents.

Because we are aware that stigma and discrimination continue to create barriers to recovery, Jordan Corcoran, founder of Listen, Lucy will share her story of living with a mental health diagnosis and what led her to create an outlet for others to express and accept themselves, faults and all. Jordan advocates for a less judgmental, more accepting world.

Hear also from Director Shannon Fagan on how the Pennsylvania Bureau of Children’s Behavioral Health Services is transforming the way it delivers services to children and families. By strengthening partnerships and truly listening and responding to the needs of families, the Bureau has re-committed to improving the mental health of our communities - one child at a time.

NAMI Southwestern Pennsylvania made a commitment in 2013 to expand its family-centered focus to specifically address the needs of children and youth. We have also been listening to families to better identify areas where new services and supports are needed, and seeking professionals who are ready to provide innovative solutions to those challenges. Please join us for a day of education and relationship-building. Be part of the culture that changes the future for our children, and for generations to come.

Who Should Attend

Social workers; Psychologists; Special Education and Classroom Teachers; Early Childhood Professionals; Therapists, Counselors; Parents and Caregivers; Local Community Leaders; and regional, county and state government leaders in Southwestern Pennsylvania.

Conference Objectives

At the end of this day-long program, attendees should be able to:

1. Comprehend that childhood trauma is widespread and how Trauma-Focused Cognitive Behavioral Therapy can effectively treat PTSD and other trauma-related problems in children.

2. Appreciate the importance and power of self-acceptance through sharing personal stories of mental illness that encourage understanding in others.

3. Review initiatives of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Children’s Behavioral Health Services that promote a family-driven, youth-guided system of care.

4. Illustrate the importance of early intervention for first episode psychosis.

5. Name types of anxiety in children, ways they can affect behavior in both classroom and at-home settings, and how to develop coping skills and modify the environment to mitigate anxiety reactions.

6. Describe how the Integrative Development Model can enhance treatment of adolescents across varied socioeconomic, familial and racial/ethnic backgrounds.

7. Recognize the link among thoughts, feelings and behavior to effectively respond to the needs of children with emotional and/or behavioral disorders.

8. Recall the impact of modified dialectical behavior therapy on adolescents with bipolar disorder.

9. Ascertain how to obtain appropriate placement for students and identify special education supports and services available to children enrolled in the public school system who have an IEP (Individualized Education Plan).

10. Improve communication skills and address emotional and behavioral issues within families by integrating popular culture.

11. Identify resources for both children and families provided by The Alliance for Infants and Toddlers, Allegheny Family Network, the Early Childhood Wellness Initiative and Partners in Wellness.

12. Illustrate how a collaborative partnership between schools and behavioral health community services can bring comprehensive supports to educators, students, families and the community.

Continuing Education Credits*

Psychologists: Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic is approved by the American Psychological Association to sponsor continuing education credit for psychologists. Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic maintains responsibility for this program and its content. This program is being offered for 7.5 continuing education credits.

Counselors: Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic has been approved by NBCC as an Approved Continuing Education Provider, ACEP No. 5059. Evaluations and Adjournment
Childhood trauma is common, with more than a third of children experiencing multiple traumas and at high risk for developing posttraumatic stress disorder (PTSD). PTSD is under-recognized, and without effective treatment it can lead to serious and long-lasting trauma-related problems. Trauma-Focused Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (TF-CBT) has been shown to effectively treat PTSD and other trauma-related problems. During her keynote presentation, Dr. Cohen describes trauma impact, the TF-CBT model, and how this evidence-based treatment helps children and parents recover after trauma.

Presenter: Judith A. Cohen is a Board Certified Child & Adolescent Psychiatrist, Medical Director of the Allegheny General Hospital Center for Traumatic Stress in Children & Adolescents, and Professor of Psychiatry at Drexel University College of Medicine. Dr. Cohen is a developer of TF-CBT and has received more than a dozen federal grants related to the assessment and treatment of child maltreatment and trauma. She has served on the Board of Directors of the American Professional Society on the Abuse of Children and received its Outstanding Professional Award. She is a past member of the Board of Directors of the International Society for Traumatic Stress Studies, Associate Editor of its Journal of Traumatic Stress, and co-editor of its PTSD guidelines. Dr. Cohen is Co-Chair of the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry Child Maltreatment and Violence Committee, first author of its PTSD practice parameters, was on its Journal’s Editorial Board, and received its 2004 Rieger Award for Scientific Achievement. She is Co-Chair of the National Child Traumatic Stress Network’s Child Abuse and Child Traumatic Grief committees and consultant to Sesame Street and the Tragedy Assistance Program for Survivors related to military children’s traumatic grief issues.

Morning Plenary Session “Listen, Lucy”
Jordan, Corcoran, Founder, Listen, Lucy
Mental illness is just that - it’s mental, and sometimes it feels impossible to explain it to people so they can truly understand the depths of the illness. Jordan Corcoran will openly and candidly share her struggle with generalized anxiety disorder and panic disorder in hopes to shed light around mental illness, to inspire those with mental illness to share their own stories, and to encourage others to really listen in ways that will encourage a broader understanding. She will discuss her struggle, her coping techniques, how it led her to create Listen, Lucy, and the importance and power of self-acceptance.

Presenter: Jordan Corcoran went to Mercyhurst College. During her freshman year, she was diagnosed with generalized anxiety disorder and panic disorder. After going through a very difficult struggle with coming to terms and learning to cope with these disorders, Jordan created an outlet where people can openly and candidly share their own challenges and personal struggles. She speaks publicly to college, high school and middle school students about her story, Listen, Lucy, and the importance of acceptance of both others and self. She is the author of Listen, Lucy Volume I and has been featured on Today.com and UpWorthy.com for her self-love campaigns. She recently filmed The Acceptance Movement docu-series, which features her speaking to 10 U.S. schools and organizations, revealing the powerful impact this organization can have. Jordan’s mission is simple - she wants to create a less judgmental, more accepting world.
Lunch Speaker “Developing a Family-Driven and Youth-Guided Children’s Behavioral Health System”

Shannon M. Fagan, MS, Director of the Bureau of Children’s Behavioral Health Services, Office of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services, Department of Human Services of Pennsylvania

The Pennsylvania Bureau of Children’s Behavioral Health Services is exploring new ways of doing business to better meet the needs of communities across the Commonwealth by delivering more effective and meaningful services to children, youth and families. Building partnerships, bringing together state and local resources, implementing best practices and actively engaging families are efforts that support the Bureau’s mission to ensure that individuals from birth through age 26 with emotional and behavioral challenges live, learn, work and thrive in their communities. Learn how the Bureau is improving programs and processes, and encouraging collaborative efforts with a variety of stakeholders, to transform our children’s behavioral health system into a successful model that is family driven and youth guided.

Presenter: Shannon M. Fagan, MS, is Director of the Bureau of Children’s Behavioral Health Services, Office of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services, under the Department of Human Services of Pennsylvania. She previously served as Director of the Youth and Family Training Institute (YFTI), with responsibility for assuring the overall success of High Fidelity Wraparound implementation across Pennsylvania. Prior to this role, Shannon worked as a Child and Adolescent Services System Program Coordinator (CASSP) in Westmoreland County. Her experiences also include working as a Child Life Specialist at Children’s Hospital of Pittsburgh, supervisor of an Early Intervention Program serving children, ages 0-3, with various development delays and their families, and counselor for a Foster Care/Juvenile Probation program. Shannon holds a bachelor’s degree from Penn State University in Human Development and Family Studies, and a master’s degree in Child Development/Child Care from the School of Social Work at the University of Pittsburgh.
1. Parenting a Child with Mental Health Issues | Christina Hostutler, LCSW, Clinical Director, Outreach Teen & Family Services

Do you ever find that friendly advice and the tips in parenting books just don’t seem to work with your child? Parenting children with mood or behavioral disorders presents unique challenges and a ton of stress on the caregivers. Learn how you can better assess your child’s needs and respond in a way that is sensitive to their issues, all the while maintaining a relationship and your sanity. This introductory level workshop is designed to benefit both parents and practitioners by helping participants map out common behavioral issues displayed by children to determine their underlying beliefs and feelings, thereby targeting the need and meaning driving the behavior.

2. ENGAGE Early: Working with Young Adults Experiencing First Episode Psychosis | Marci Sturgeon-Rusiewicz, MS, NCC, LPC, CPSS, PsyD Candidate, Senior Manager of Recovery and Resiliency, Family Services of Western Pennsylvania; Melina Spyridaki-Dodd, MD, Family Services of Western Pennsylvania

Early treatment of psychosis - especially during the first episode - leads to the best outcomes. This workshop will introduce the initiative of FEP (First Episode Psychosis) on both the national and state level, as well as provide an overview of what early intervention FEP programs do and how they help improve treatment outcomes for young adults experiencing psychosis. Topics to include: Cause of psychosis; Symptoms of psychosis (beyond delusions and hallucinations); Impact of early intervention/ specific interventions to use; Medications and possible side effects; Differing symptoms/behaviors of psychosis for child/adolescent vs. adult; Prognosis with psychosis; and suggested tools and resources to assess for psychosis.

3. The Missing Link: Addressing the Fatherhood Crisis | George Fleming, FIN Supervisor, Allegheny Family Network

Are you a father? Do you want to learn for yourself - or for the men who are significant in your life - about the importance of the father-child relationship? This interactive workshop is designed to help participants understand how to engage and empower fathers. It will also address the impact a father’s involvement has on the social, emotional and resiliency development of their youth and adolescents. Participants will be introduced to the Fathers Involved Now (FIN) Program used by Allegheny Family Network to encourage fathers to have a presence in their children’s lives, to serve as role models effecting change, and to become successful ambassadors for their children with mental health issues and behavioral concerns.

4. The Nuts and Bolts of Special Education | Joanna Patterson, MEd, Education Specialist, Allegheny County Office of Behavioral Health; Amy Hardy, MEd, Education Specialist, Allegheny County Office of Behavioral Health

Children who have been diagnosed with mental or physical disabilities, developmental delays or special health care needs who are enrolled in the public school system may be entitled to special education and other types of support services. Many resources exist, but the challenge is how to access and implement the ones that will best meet the needs of the child. This presentation will explore various special education services that can be provided to students, from placement to provision of services. The comprehensive information shared will be valuable to both educators, paraprofessionals and parents of students with special needs.

5. Social and Emotional Screening for Children: Birth to Age Five | Stephanie Evans, LPC, NCC, Mental Health Specialist, Alliance for Infants and Toddlers; Jillian Hawk, Clinical Director, Alliance for Infants and Toddlers

The Alliance for Infants and Toddlers provides Ages and Stages and Ages and Stages Social/Emotional Screening for children in Allegheny County ages birth to three for Early Intervention and ages birth to five for children and families active with Allegheny County Children Youth and Families services (OCYF). In addition, Alliance has been offering depression screening to primary caregivers who have a child enrolled in Early Intervention. To date, over 9,000 caregiver screens for depression have been completed by Alliance staff. This session will provide an overview of the Ages and Stages screening tools and how these are being used to monitor development and to refer children and families for additional supports and services when indicated. Data and findings from the Physical Health Questionnaire (PHQ9) offered to caregivers will be reviewed, and mental health supports and services for caregivers and families related to depression screening will be presented. The local designation of “Attachment” risk for Early Intervention services will be explained.

6. Dialectical Behavior Therapy for Adolescents with Bipolar Disorder | Nina Hotkowski, LCSW, Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic/Child and Adolescent Bipolar Spectrum Services; Rachael Fersch-Podrat, LSCW, Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic/Child and Adolescent Bipolar Spectrum Services

Dialectical Behavior Therapy (DBT) helps people identify and change negative patterns of behavior. This workshop will provide information about traditional DBT and how adaptations made to DBT may make this treatment beneficial for adolescents diagnosed with bipolar disorder. Descriptions of approaches utilized in DBT sessions, including treatment strategies, behavior chain analysis, and the role of the treatment hierarchy will be included, in addition to case examples. Questions and discussion from the audience will be encouraged.
7. Intensive Family Coaching within the Early Childhood Wellness Initiative | Virginia Johnson, PhD, Manager of Psychological Services, Community Care Behavioral Health Organization; Pam Dotson, MA, Licensed Behavioral Specialist, Community Care Behavioral Health Organization

The Early Childhood Wellness Initiative includes an Intensive Family Coaching model which is an adaptation of Parent Child Interaction Therapy (PCIT) for use in the home. This model is targeted to families in which parents would benefit from strengthening behavioral management, as well as positive relationships with their children. This presentation will outline the model and define families who may benefit from its use.

8. Speaking Your Child’s Language - Addressing Emotional and Behavioral Issues with Your Child Through Popular Culture | Devon Manderino, PhD, LPC, NCC, ACS, Assistant Professor, Waynesburg University; Corey Vansickle, MEd, LPC, Certified School Counselor, Certified Clinical Trauma Professional, Doctoral Candidate, Waynesburg University

Finding ways to talk about emotional and behavioral issues can be a challenge for families. The use of popular culture, whether it be Thomas or Instagram, can help to facilitate these challenging conversations. This workshop focuses on providing families with the tools to bridge the communication gap by making use of themes and metaphors from popular culture. Participants will learn communication strategies from experienced clinicians and how to connect those skills to their own families.

9. Identifying and Treating Anxiety in Children’s Behavior Issues | Stacey L. Munsie, MSW, LCSW, Director, Pediatric Counseling Services

An underlying cause of behavior problems in children is often anxiety. However, rarely is this identified and managed appropriately. Often, children are labeled as defiant or uncooperative when they are actually anxious, avoidant or explosive in response to feeling extremely uncomfortable. Anxiety can cause children to withdraw, not communicate when spoken to, not follow directions, avoid eye contact, act out, redirect attention by negative attention-seeking behaviors and show several other behaviors in an attempt to control their environment and cope with their own anxiety. Teachers and parents can misinterpret the signs and symptoms and mislabel children “behavior problems”. By addressing anxiety symptoms effectively, behavior can be managed, and children can learn coping skills they can employ to gain confidence and succeed in different settings.

10. Strengthening Clinicians Working with the Multicultural Adolescent | Melva Hartzog, MDiv, MA, NCC, Doctoral Candidate, Liberty University

Developing culturally competent helping professionals requires an understanding of microaggression, racial/ethnic identity and cross-cultural issues. The Integrative Development Model (IDM) provides clinicians with tools to assist in their professional development in these areas, which is particularly important for those working with the adolescent population. The IDM assists in this education through its three developmental stages and is enhanced with the incorporation of the critical incidents/events process model. This developmental model is ideal for both new and experienced clinicians.

11. Ask the Doctor | Aileen P. Oandasan, MD, Medical Director of Behavioral Medicine, The Children’s Institute of Pittsburgh; Tina M. Boni, MA, PsyD, Inpatient Clinical Manager, Psychology Resident, The Children’s Institute

Parents of children with mental illness and/or behavioral issues often have many questions that can’t be quickly answered in a short doctor’s visit. During this workshop, Aileen Oandasan, MD, will answer participants’ wide variety of questions concerning the mental health of children and adolescents while discussing effective treatments and supports for children and families that promote healthy living and positive relationships.

12. Partners in Wellness: Schools and Community Agencies partnering to bring supports to children, families, educators and the community | Amber Greenwood, MEd, Propel Partners in Wellness, Project Manager; Carrie Barmen, MSED, Propel Partners in Wellness; Jim Phillips, MEd, Manager of SAP/Prevention, TCV Community Services; Michelle Wangler, LPC, Director of Child and Adult outpatient mental health Services, TCV Community Services.

An interactive workshop that will assist participants in understanding how schools and community agencies can partner and collaborate to bring comprehensive supports to children, families, educators, and community.
